The top image represents the visitor view when they, the visitor, are not logged into Facebook. Best Aaron. I tested another site in IE and the Share Link worked. You can use media queries or other methods to set the width of the parent element, yet: The plugin will determine its width on page load It will not react changes to the box model after page load. Reply Kiwi April 24, at am Hey Don, how do we add in the comments field to this also? Don, thanks for your great posts. Watch the opening clip of this video to preview it, the full video is available to paid members. This is really simple plugin with fast support. It is definitely rough at this point. Some of my widget users had same problem in past. Now we also need to call this function and we need to add it to the footer. Okay so now we have this conditional statement set up. Stay tuned! Okay so we have descriptive names. After you click the like button it just posts the link to your profile without warning. Help me so fast to setup Facebook integration. Other plugins I tried didn't really have the Facebook aesthetic - this one does! Installing the like button for all posts via OpenHook was ridiculously simple and took about 30 seconds to have it working on my site. Okay and put a comma or not comma, semi-colon after that. Okay so our Twitter button is on here. And so we are going to paste that in the HTML section. You need to signup for a Facebook Developer account first. We just need this script applied to every place this is applied. This would be great if it would work properly. Facebook is arguably the most influential social network in terms of driving traffic and prospects to your web site. Pretty cool result, I think! May have been a conflict with another page I had open? Whoops, you've found some premium content! And want it to show up on all blog posts. Reply eileen April 26, at pm Kevin thanks for the reminder to check Explorer, I always forget. My site looks okay and seems to be working fine, but I am using 8. Also, I agree with your point about the preview before posting your FB profile. Thank you! And so this is an extension of what we talked about – it was, I think last week. The name of our function is this. So we can just go ahead and grab that function name just like that and paste it here. They should absolutely do that. No Dynamic Resizing The Page plugin works with responsive, fluid and static layouts. So now we have our Twitter button and our Facebook button. Custom functions php and upload it.
